A. H. S. Newscast

Well, here we are in the midst of another busy week at A. H. S.

Valentine Day was celebrated with parties in many of the clubs and home rooms. Every Valentine box was filled and there were lots and lots of them from, "Guess Who." We all hoped that they were from someone that we especially liked. The Juniors had the biggest party, I believe. They were unable to have a Christmas party so that made up for it on Valentine's Day.

For the past few weeks the Senior English classes have been studying letter-writing. Mr. George Abbitt, Mr. C. W. Smith and Mr. R. B. Hudgins visited the classes and gave us some helpful pointers. Their coming made our classes most interesting and we appreciate the time they spent.

Say fellows, if a girl comes up to you and asks you for a date, don't be surprised. This is Leap Year, and the Junior class is giving a Leap Year canteen party. Hurry and get yourself a date, girls, before the boy you want is taken.

The regular meeting of the Senior Tri-Hi-Y was opened Monday with devotions by Jo Ann Catlett. Kay Doss had charge of the program. She read us an interesting story on "The Measure of Man's Conduct." The meeting adjourned with the Tri-Hi-Y benediction.

The Latin Class has held regular meetings all year. The January meeting was held in honor of Janus, god of the New Year. The program centered around the calendar, the inventions and changes through out the year. The Zodiac and its significance to the ancients was also explained. Each member was presented with a candle to make the new year bright, a piece of candy to make it sweet, and a penny to make it prosperous.

Wednesday was a delightful day for us. We were out of school to attend the movie, "The Great Caruso," at the Lee Theatre. The movie was very educational as well as interesting and everyone enjoyed it very much.

The Seniors got their pictures from Lynchburg this week. All of them made us look like movie stars and we love them. We all brought them to school to show off.

Our most successful basketball teams chalked up victories last Thursday night against New London. There was a little excitment when the New London boys team left the game at halftime. Friday night both teams journeyed to Bedford, where they lost both games. This week's game is at Concord with Phillips Business College.

I've covered all of the events for this week, so I'll close up shop. Be seeing you same time next week.

—PEGGY ELLEN COLE.

More Feed Grains Needed

A bumper crop of corn and other feed grains in Virginia this year can boost farmers' income and also bolster reserve stocks now at a critically low ebb, the U. S. Department of Agriculture says.

The State Agricultural Mobilization Committee is taking steps to help farmers get this production, both through increased yields and more acreage in cultivation, according to C. D. Jordon, Chairman.

Production goals for Virginia, announced earlier this month, call for 45,570,000 bushels of corn this year, a nine per cent increase over 1951 production. They seek this production on 1,059,000 acres which is eight per cent more than in 1951. The goals also call for increases in other important feed grains.

The need for more grains stems from a rapidly expanding livestock and poultry industry, especially in the South, Jordon said. Growing itarary, requires greater meat and itary, requires greater meat and poultry production than ever before.

The prices of corn and other feed grains likely will be as high or higher in 1952 than in 1951, he said. Likewise, high level price supports already have been announced as an incentive to produce. For these reasons the AMC chairman said, "Virginia farmers have a wonderful opportunity in 1952 to increase their income and at the same time build up much needed supplies of feed and food."

Since corn is the basic feed, the committe considers that major emphasis should be placed on increasing production of corn in 1952. They recommended increasing per acre yeilds as the most effective and also the most profitable method of increasing total production. Yet, in some areas and on some farms, especially those where land, labor and equipement are available, the committee recommended corn acreage expansion.

Stepping up production by better yeilds was the committee's recomendation for the south central part of the State, generally known as the tobacco area, and for part of the extreme southwest. More acreage where possible, as well as yeild increases, was recommended for the Tidewater section, where yeilds are already generally average or better.

In the remainer of the State, the Appalachin and Northern Virginia sections, where livestock production predominates, farmers are asked to concentrate on producing enough feedgrains to meet their individual livestock feed rquirements. If they do that, Jordon said, "they will be contributing very substantially to the overall production needs."

The VPI Agricultural Extension Service has just prepared up-to-date recommendations for varieties and fertilizers suitable for various sections of the state. These tips on how to get the best results are available to farmers through county agents, he said.

"There are more than a half million acres of idle farmland in Virginia that should be brought into production," Jordan noted. "With the present emergency, we acnnot afford the luxury of these idle acres which are not contributing to food production. I strongly urge every farmer to put all idle land into the defense effort."

Clear Health Before You Ship Cattle

Remember: to see about a "passport" if you have an interest in a farm animal coming into or going out of Virginia, the State Veterinarian reminded farmers this week.

If you import cattle without a health certificate, it may mean your whole herd will be quarantined, according to Dr. W. L. Bendix.

Shipping without proper certificates may cost hundreds of dollars in state fines, delays in shipping and quarantine losses at the point of origin.

Most states, including Virginia, protect their own animals from disease by requiring that newcomers have proper health certificates when they cross the state line.

In the case of cattle, state veterinarians are concerned primarily about Bang's disease and tuberculosis. In hogs, it's cholera; in sheep, scabies; and in dogs, rabies.

For farm animals, particularly cattle, the state veterinarian will want to know the health status of the individual animal and also the status of the herd it came from.

Animals which have been exposed to disease are considered dangerous as those which already have it, Dr. Bendix said.

The way to avoid trouble is to call the office of the State Veterinarian, or see one of his veterinarians if you want to buy or sell animals out of the state.

Friends are sorry to hear of the illness of Dr. Havilah Babcock, who is a patient in a hospital in Columbia, S. C. We wish for him a speedy recovery. We thought Lincoln's birthday, being a holiday, would find the banks closed and thus announced that the banks would be closed February 12. We were wrong on that one. But we have checked, to be sure, and banks will be closed tomorrow, the 22nd, for Washington's birthday.

Father Darkleaf has a new coonskin cap he got recently from Tennessee. He shows it in the office, but fears to wear it down the street because folks might think he is local manager for Senator KeFauver. A coonskin cap is KeFauver's emblem in his candidacy for President. But Father Darkleaf says his is just a souvenir, and that he will make up his mind about who should occupy the rebuilt White House later. But I still think he should wear his coonskin cap, once anyway.

This Saturday will be Tag Day in Appomattox for the Heart Fund

W. C. Dudley was telling us yesterday of an interesting trip he had recently. He and Curtis Blackwell attended the Masonic Grand Lodge meeting in Richmond, and decided to make the trip to Richmond by way of the James River route on the C & O Railway. He reported it was a delightful trip, and ventured the opinion that few around here had traveled that route. We quite agree and add that many of the younger generation have never been anywhere on a train.

The Appomattox High School P. T. A. will meet at 8:00 p. m. on February 26 in the High School Cafeteria. Following the business session a social hour will be held with square dancing, refreshments, etc.
